

AUTOMATION SYSTEM USING WIRELESS HIGH FREQUENCY

Abstract

Communication between a controller and a set of automated vehicles is improved by use of an RF link that employs a high frequency spread spectrum modem that establishes a low noise link in a high noise industrial environment and also shares the relevant frequency range with a wireless telephone system.